When people think chili, they think of hairy-armed hash-slingers dishing chuck wagon grub, not of Valentine's Day dinners. People think wrong. Chili packs more man-pleasing wallop than a Three Stooges marathon.

And if all the garlic and spices can't ignite passion, at least they'll make sure neither of you kisses anybody else that night. As for the beans, well, sometimes things that test a relationship make it stronger. Remember the old saying, "If you love something, you have to let it go"?

ESSENTIALS:

THE RECIPE

- 3 tbsp. olive oil
- 2½ lbs. chopped ground round beef
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 3-4 tbsp. chili powder
- 1-2 tbsp. curry powder
- Baseball-sized onion, chopped
- Green bell pepper, gutted and chopped to the size of press-on nails
- 2 16 oz. cans black or red kidney beans, drained

- 28 oz. can crushed tomatoes in thick puree
- 1 cup Monterey Jack cheese, shredded
- Sour cream
- Chopped lettuce or onion
- For added spiciness: 3 tbsp. chopped cilantro
- 1 or 2 chopped jalapeno peppers

Heat oil 30 seconds over medium/high heat. Brown meat and garlic, stirring continuously, then stir in chili and curry powders until meat turns chili-colored. Add onion and green pepper, stirring assiduously until onion grows limp and translucent. Add beans, then tomatoes. When everything boils, reduce heat to medium-low. Toss in the cilantro and/or jalapeno, if you're going to. Simmer 45-60 minutes, mixing it up occasionally. Serve with rice. Top with shredded Monterey Jack cheese, sour cream, chopped lettuce and/or onion. Breathe on each other.
